Microsoft office 2010 for android tablet free download apk Microsoft has taken great strides in releasing apps for any platform, not just Windows Phone or Android devices. This initiative has been a huge success for the company and avid consumers have been taking full advantage of this feature. A new survey was released by Microsoft displaying some interesting facts showing that 57% of its users have downloaded an app from the Windows Store and 34% have downloaded an app from the Google Play Store). In addition, 56% of those who downloaded apps from the Windows Store did not end up using those apps as much as they hoped. On average, those users said that they only used the app once a week. In December 2013, Microsoft announced a new range of powerful Surfaces tablets aimed at business users, with a focus on improved security and productivity. The first Surface Pro was launched in June 2014 and sold out within minutes of going on sale in 38 countries. It was also received very well by the general public and attracted positive reviews from all quarters. Microsoft also released a range of smartphones that run on Windows Phone 7.5, as opposed to the Android operating system used by Android based devices. In December 2012, it introduced a new lineup of Nokia Lumia Windows Phone devices. In May 2013, Microsoft announced the release of the Surface Pro 2 and Surface Pro 3, two new devices similar to Microsoft's earlier Surface line but with a slate form factor. The second generation tablets were announced in September 2014 and were released in October 2014. In July 2013, Microsoft launched its own version of Exchange Server that runs on its Azure cloud service for businesses that want to switch from their own physical servers or other software-based email systems.
